50 MILLION DOLLAR DENVER ZOO EXPANSION NEARS COMPLETION

Woodinville WA Specialty Contractor Performs Significant Role in Habitat Construction at Denver Zoo

Edge Concrete Construction of Woodinville, WA is completing the final stages of the Asian Tropics Exhibit, a ten acre, 50 million dollar expansion at the Denver Zoo in Denver, CO. When complete this ambitious project will include five distinct natural habitats for Asian Elephants, Gibbon Monkeys, Indian Rhinos, Malayan Tapirs, Clouded Leopards as well as many more species inside the Asian Pavilion Building. Denver Zoo is attempting LEED certification at the platinum level, making it the first zoo in the U.S. that has sought certification for an entire large animal exhibit complex. The project is on schedule to be turned over to the Owner by the end of this year, with the new exhibit opening to the public in the spring of 2012.

Edge Concrete was contracted to perform all habitat exhibitory work, which included themed shotcrete habitat pools containing 1.1 million gallons of water, artificial rockwork, artificial trees & vines, artificial termite mound and artificial bamboo. Edge was also contracted to provide over 30,000 sf of decorative themed flatwork and bridge decks. Prefabrication of the artificial trees, vines and bamboo was performed in Edge Concrete's Woodinville, WA shop. A crew of eight highly skilled Washington employees mobilized in April of 2010 to perform onsite construction. In addition, Edge provided employment opportunities for twenty Colorado workers over the course of the 20 month long project.

Edge Concrete Construction LLC was established in 1991 and provides themed and decorative concrete in Washington State and throughout the US for Zoos, Aquariums, Nature Preserves, Children's Museums as well as Commercial and Retail Facilities.

Owner: Denver Zoological Society

Architect: CLR Architects, Pennsylvania
