To Whom It May Concern:

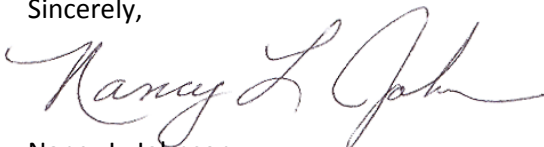

It is with great pleasure that I write this letter of recommendation for our friends at Edge Concrete.

We first began working with Tawn Endress in early 2000 when we launched a capital campaign to build a new home for our children's museum. Tawn worked with Museum Board and staff members, taking our ideas and incorporating them into functional exhibit designs. During the planning period we found him to be very creative and willing to working with the many different ideas that were presented. He did an outstanding job of helping us focus on desired outcomes and ensuring that we were realistically working within our budget. In addition to planning, we also secured Edge Concrete's services for fabrication. We were once again pleased at their flexibility and desire to satisfy our needs for modification.

Tawn and Edge Concrete did an outstanding job of working with the other architects and contractors involved in our project. The quality of their work and attention to detail was critical, as our standard of excellence is very high. They created exhibits both inside our facility and in an outdoor adventure area.

As you can probably imagine, exhibits in children's museums incur a high level of use and abuse. Edge Concrete has been very responsive to our requests for modifications or repairs as needed. In fact, because of our strong working relationship and the high level of satisfaction we have with their work, we have engaged them to create additional exhibits over the years. We believe they are among the finest exhibit fabricators in the field, and look forward to working with them on future projects.

Sincerely,
